

Aljassimya Farm, Join us In Paris.

Om El Aisha Aljassimya

by Emma Maxwell ■ photos by Avalon Photography, Gigi Grasso and Emma Maxwell

For Sheikh Jassim Bin Khalifa Al Thani of Aljassimya Farm, Doha, Qatar the role of breeding the finest Arabian horses is an important one, preserving centuries of tradition and excellence. To create a breeding program of note the breeder must have a clear vision of the ideal horse he means to produce and breed unwaveringly towards that goal. It means selection above all, first of the original breeding stock and then amongst the next generations of stock destined to become the bedrock of the stud. From the first three crops of foals born in 2015, it can be seen that Aljassimya Farm has started to develop the classic look that will become their hallmark.

WH Justice was the first stallion chosen to be a herd sire and his legacy is complete at the farm with his oldest daughters already producing champions and a host of younger

Jalal Aljassimya

EM

daughters from the worlds top female families just waiting to take their turn. Just as exciting as the daughters, for which WH Justice is unsurprisingly famous, Aljassimya Farm is proud to have bred one of his most complete young sons Jalal Aljassimya. A tall and perfectly balanced pale grey colt with an outstanding frame to add to his exquisite head and free athletic trot, Jalal Aljassimya started his career with a win at the Las Vegas World Cup in the yearling colts. On his way to Europe from California he paused to take the Gold Champion Yearling Colt in New York in September. Shown by Giacomo Capacci for the first time in New York he is now in Tuscany with Giacomo, hoping to follow in the footsteps of Ghazwan Aljassimya, the Aljassimya Farm bred 2014 World Champion Yearling Colt.

Like all the home bred horses from Aljassimya Farm, Jalal Aljassimya also has the strength of the female side of his family. His dam Annais brings in the type of her Straight Egyptian sire Ansata Nile Echo, plus the international show style of her multi champion dam Ass Windi a direct daughter

The Saskia RJ family is one of the major tap root damlines of Aljassimya Farm, with five females tracing to her.

WH Justice has maintained his global reach and was Champion Sire of the Show at the 2015 Arabian Breeders World Cup in Las Vegas, as well as sire of the Gold Champion Mare at the 2015 All Nations Cup. Representing Aljassimya Farm on the fillies side is another of his grey daughters, Om El Aisha Aljassimya, the picture of a feminine filly with her tiny muzzle and alert expression. Not shown as a yearling she stepped for the first time onto the show scene at the incredibly competitive 2015 Mediterranean and Arab countries Championships in Menton, where she won her class with 20's awarded for both type and head. The Silver Champion title was hers in the championships and she has now spent the summer and autumn in Tuscany with Giacomo Capacci preparing for Paris.

Like Jalal Aljassimya, Om El Aisha Aljassimya represents the farms breeding ethos on her dams side as well. Her dam the young mare Om El Aliba, is by the most successful of the AL Labab sons Om El Al Azeem, recently crowned in New York as the first US Open Champion Stallion. Her granddam is Om El Bint Shaina, one of the loveliest mares from the Estopa family and also dam of Om El Excella. The Bint El Shaina descendants are also a family that Aljassimya Farm has been selecting horses from, creating a depth of quality in bloodlines to stand the test of time.

In December Aljassimya Farm is proud to be competing at the Salon Du Cheval World Championships with two homebred young horses of world class standard. The Paris show is the peak and celebration of the whole year and we hope you stop by at the Aljassimya Farm booth, to talk to any member of the team, about the breed we all love. □

Om El Aisha Aljassimya

ALJASSIMYA FARM
Since 1979